Benjamin M. Ampel

Assistant Professor in Computer Information Systems | Georgia State University
bampel@gsu.edu | https://bampel.com

Research Summary

Benjamin M. Ampel - Assistant Professor of Computer Information Systems at Georgia State University. Research in AI-enabled Cybersecurity, Large Language Models, and Cyber Threat Intelligence.

Research Metrics

Citations	h-index	i10-index
482	9	9
Publications	J/C/W	Citation Velocity
30	8/16/6	16
Years Active	Top Venues
2019-2026	IEEE ISI, AMCIS, HICSS, WISP, ACM KDD, ACM Transactions on Management Information Systems, 16:1, 1-27

Research Focus

AI-enabled Cybersecurity, Cyber Threat Intelligence, Large Language Models, Deep Learning, Phishing Detection, Hacker Communities

Selected Publications

Performance Modeling of Hyperledger Sawtooth Blockchain (2019)
2019 IEEE International Conference on Intelligence and Security Informatics …, 2019 | Citations: 130

Linking Common Vulnerabilities and Exposures to the MITRE ATT&CK; Framework: A Self-Distillation Approach (2021)
Workshop on AI-enabled Cybersecurity Analytics, 2021 ACM Conference …, 2021 | Citations: 75

Labeling Hacker Exploits for Proactive Cyber Threat Intelligence: A Deep Transfer Learning Approach (2020)
2020 IEEE International Conference on Intelligence and Security Informatics …, 2020 | Citations: 50

Generated on 2026-02-04